Plainly Malaspina is often published every two weeks by Plainly Malaspina Newspapers International Inc., of Nanaimo, BC.

If you or any new staff you know wish to join the many subscribers to Plainly Malaspina, please send email to the Subscription Department: black@mala.bc.ca.

Our Staff:
Editor (on leave): John Black
Acting Editor: Ivor Grudge

Coming Soon:
Research Workshop Series
Canada Council: Cooking up a Casserole with Colleagues
200/203 3:30 pm Nov 4

Applications:
as Easy as Apple Pie!
200/203 3:30 pm Nov 18

SSHRC: Shucking the Shells and Sharing the Shilling
200/203 3:30 pm Nov 25

Don’t Forget to Visit our Archive

Since the Editor is away on yet another “research trip” to Italy, PM is brought to you today by Assistant Editor Ivor Grudge. In accordance with the strictest canons of journalistic ethics, moreover, PM leaves no holds barred in its attempts to root out graft and corruption at all levels.

For this reason, and despite the fact that the duty is distasteful, we cannot avoid bringing the spotlight home to roost on the Editor himself.

The page to the left is from the discarded draft of a grant application, sniffed out recently by our investigative staff in the waste-paper bin of the Research Office. You may draw your own conclusions.

Readers with less than perfect vision are advised to expand this page to 170% or higher for easy viewing.