New building identification system for Nanaimo campus

During the next two weeks new signs will be placed on all buildings carrying new numbering and identification. The signs will be the result of a first phase of a new campus signage project intending to ease student and public access to the campus.

Major buildings will be prominently named by sign at all approach points and will also carry a new building number. Separate classroom buildings will carry a number only.

The old numbering system could not accommodate the significant number of new buildings, and the new system will also assist immediate location of a building by a visitor.

Buildings will be numbered in 100, 200 and 300 blocks.

Buildings in the 100 and 200 range are below the new college centre, and 300 buildings are above it.

A chart showing the old and new building numbers is provided with this bulletin. Another will be issued with a new campus map by mid-August.

Large-scale maps will be in place at public reception and student areas in August.
