

Intro Ch. 1 Ch. 2 Ch. 3 Ch. 4 Ch. 5 Ch. 6 Ch. 7 Ch. 8 Conc. Art

Edging Forward by Ann Dale

Edging Forward
Edging Forward is not exactly a sequel to social innovations and progress in local community development in Canada, Edging in 2005. Based on my 15-year research, this book is about the many options we have to edge forward in implementing development now.

But, what is stopping Canadian communities? How has a single 'story' come to dominate? What are the drivers for reconciling our imperatives throughout Canadian communities? How do we change the single story and move forward?

This book is about the power of stories to influence our ability to act now on climate for immediate action to move from old, new, sustainable pathways. Once again, I and the professional, to talk about my journey, reconnoiter and the power of relationships, a pathway for transforming human development.

About this Site
People learn in multiple ways—auditory, visual, kinesthetic, and reading/writing. This living library integrates academic and practical of the foregoing to appeal to diverse styles. This site brings together my colleagues, scholars who have contributed to the landscapes that were painted to illustrate to complement the print and its book club may be ordered from Fernhills Press, and the beauty of nature have always and just as they are integral to new

Blog at WordPress.com

Powered by Kiosk Pro

tion, on 017
BC
Cowell,
1973